

Bring on the Inspection

Among the Royal Canadian Air Cadets at Clinton, Ont., are 30 members of No. 588 Canadair squadron. The cadets are automatically members of the RCAF primary reserve, and subject to Air Force regulations in carrying out the air cadet training program as laid down by the RCAF. Two members of the squadron, LAC M. Guzzi and Cpl. P. Steevesmake, of Canadair unit, make sure they will uphold their squadron's good standing: All cadets in the unit are sons of Canadair employees.

The Cadets themselves were very successful during this camp, by winning the Barrack Award trophy, the Drill competition pennant and the Senior Softball championship.

CADET CAMP ACTIVITIES — Under the command of Squadron Leader Eric Simms, No. 588 Canadair Squadron attended the summer camp at Clinton, Ontario. In addition to a number of individual awards the Squadron distinguished itself by winning the Senior Softball Pennant, the Drill Pennant and the top award at the camp, the Barracks Award, presented for neatness and cleanliness in the barracks. The above photo shows Squadron Leader Simms, with the boys of the Squadron, watching the field day events.

THE BEST TEAM WON — Representing the best team in all sports during the Air Cadet summer training course at RCAF Camp Borden, Ont., Cadet Sgt. Gerald John Bedard of 592 Canadair Community Squadron, accepts the Athletic Championship Trophy from Air Commodore J. B. Harvey, Chief Staff Officer of RCAF Training Command. Cadet Bedard, representing his team, accepted the trophy during the graduation ceremonies of the Senior Leader's Course at RCAF Station Camp Borden. Nearly 100 cadets from across Canada received the seven weeks instruction in academics, drill and leadership.
